ST. IVES ORCHID FAIR 17 – 18 – 19 AUGUST 2018

DISPLAY SET UP IS FROM 9AM THURSDAY 16TH AUGUST

We need your plants for our display. We realise some members belong to other societies and usually put their plants in that display but it would be nice if you could spare some plants for us. Please bring in your plants early so we can plan the display and also don't forget to fill in the plant list to help judges identify who owns plants.

President's report

Congratulations to everyone that benched at Orchids by the Sea, and to all of the class winners and champions. It was great to see the prizes spread out over so many growers. I honestly didn't think we would see as many plants there as we did, but was pleased to be wrong. Thank you to everyone that helped, it was another great success this year and as always a special thank you to the indefatigable committee.

My apologies for missing the last meeting. From all accounts it was an incredible talk given by Alex Zaslowski from AWZ Orchids. Not every day we get a talk from someone from Brazil, special thanks to Alex for doing that for us - I'm upset I missed out.

I look forward to seeing you all at St. Ives, as always any help people can give volunteering over the weekend would be appreciated.

Dylan

GUEST SPEAKER. There will be a culture class with a potting demonstration. Please feel free to bring in any problem plants for the experts to give an opinion.

SUPPER – Our supper volunteers this month are Ros Mathews for sandwiches and we don't have a volunteer for something sweet. Thank you to those who brought in something extra for the supper table last month.

Hybrid Plant of the Evening Grown by A. Sulfaro

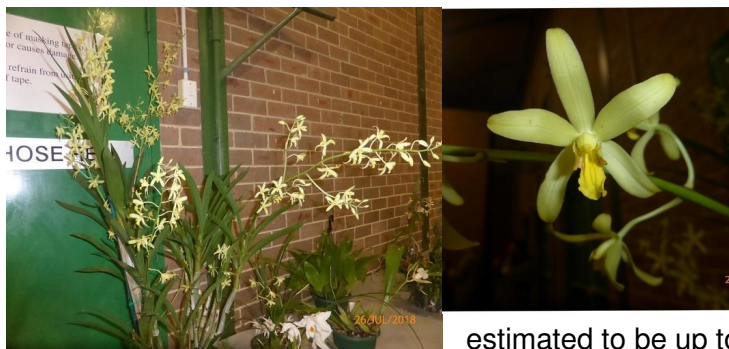

Phalaenopsis Unknown

Despite being so common and generally what the uninitiated think of when we say orchid, not many of our members grow Phalaenopsis. I'm glad some of you do, and I'm glad Angie does so well. They are a fantastic addition to our displays at shows, and I can't remember the last time this section of the bench was empty at a monthly meeting.

Specie Plant of the Evening Grown by C. Polis

Ansellia africana var. nilotica

Probably the best known orchid of mainland Africa, Ansellia africana is a fascinating orchid. Officially a monotypic species, it is now widely accepted to be a species complex of multiple, very closely related species. Most commonly it grows as an epiphyte, high up in trees, and its roots have a tendency to grow upwards into a basket shape to catch leaf litter. They have been known to form massive specimens, estimated to be up to a tonne in weight and are often used by large species of bird to nest in. It also readily hybridises with other genera such as Cymbidium, Catasetum and Promenaea.

Specimen Plant of Evening Grown By T. Riddell

Dinema (Encyclia) polybulbon

Definitely a plant meant to be a specimen, Dinema polybulbon is quick to multiply and adapts well to growing as a mound more so than mounted or in a pot. The secret is plenty of water and light to grow it quickly and get a high flower count (not that that is a real secret, it applies to most plants). Since being moved from Encyclia, it is now considered a monotypic genus (containing only one species). Found growing on oaks in the mixed forests of Mexico, Nicaragua, Cuba and Jamaica, it is quite adaptable to a range of conditions and is worth a place in everyone's collection.

Novice Plant of the Evening Grown by M. & S. Howard

Jumellea sagittata

Madagascar and the other islands of the east coast of Africa are absolutely full of botanical wonders, and the orchids from this region certainly don't disappoint. Of all the Angraecinae subtribe, Jumellea sagittata seems to be on the easier side to grow, however they don't seem particularly common. Which is a shame. They are the most pristine white and beautifully scented. Once again, very well grown by Michael and Sheree.
